BREEDING TROUBLE.

President Roosevelt's announced policy of appointing no candidates to Federal office who are strongly opposed within their own party is undoubtedly based on a determination to bring about party harmony in State organizations that have hitherto been prone to factional differences.

The President believes, the Washington news intimated some time ago, that the Republican organization in each State should be sufficiently harmonious to unite upon candidates for Federal appointments. Such candidates should be recommended to him through the regular party channels, and when appointed there should be no consequent uproar of discontent within the party ranks. Unity and discipline must prevail to this extent if a State organization as to commend itself to the National Chief Executive.

In all likelihood this policy of the President is what accounts for the signs now in evidence that the State chairman of the Republican organization in Missouri is to find more favor in President Roosevelt's eyes, as the channel through which recommendations for Federal appointments may most fitly come, than the National Committeemen from Missouri or others not so closely in touch with the party organization. The State chairman being also in alliance with the Missouri member of the Cabinet, whatever recommendations he may make will be more strongly commended to the President than would otherwise be possible. This will look like party harmony, the President will doubtless reason.

But if Mr. Roosevelt believes that the Kerens faction of the Missouri "outfit" will quietly submit to the dominance of the Akins faction he is grievously mistaken. If Appraiser of Customs Smith and Collector of Internal Revenue Grenner are supplanted by Akins men there's going to be such trouble in Missouri as can be raised by the hungriest gang of spoilers in the whole Union. The President should prepare for an anti-insurgent campaign of the liveliest description. His new policy lays the foundation for the bitterest fight of the Missouri "outfit's" history.—St. Louis Republic.

Sound and Strong.

Yesterday's election gave no encouragement to either the reorganizers or the disorganizers in the Democratic party.

In the two States where there was the most to gain or lose—Maryland and Kentucky—the Democratic party came to its own. A United States Senator has been gained in each of these border States.

Tammany's defeat in New York City is not a party defeat. It is the consequence of reckless and autocratic machine rule. St. Louis Democrats, for example, who overthrew a Republican machine last spring with the help of the independent vote, felt only gratification that New York citizens without regard to party, are capable of administering a blistering rebuke to insolent spoilsmen who have used office for personal advantage.

In Massachusetts, Iowa and Ohio the Republican victories were expected; as was the Democratic success in Virginia.

Nebraska is the greatest Democratic disappointment. It seems that we must learn there, as we have learned in Kansas and the Dakotas, that the Populists Republicans are Republicans still, with whom alliance offers no rewards in practical politics.

Democracy is fully holding its own. It will be full of vigor and aggression before 1904. It needs no new panaceas. The organization is sound and the loyalty of voters to the old creed is demonstrated.—St. Louis Republic.

Mrs. Julia Wagstaff, of Cheyenne, Wyoming, committed suicide by taking poison. Her baby nursed after the drug was taken and also died.

Edridge, a wealthy sewing machine manufacturer, of Belvidere, Ill., was paid $1,750 for a carnation. It is salmon colored, blended with crimson.

Every available infantryman in Great Britain is to be rushed to South Africa. But a single regiment of cavalry remains at home.

While temporarily insane, John C. Adams, a Bourbon county farmer, mortally wounded his two-year-old son and then committed suicide.

Warning Circular.

Circulars signed by J. M. Matthews as president, and Dr. J. N. McCormack as secretary, of the State Board of Health have been issued on the subject of "Prevention of Diphtheria." It is addressed to health officials, physicians and people of Kentucky, and reads as follows:

The unusual prevalence of diphtheria in many sections of the State makes it the duty of this board to again call attention to the best known methods of preventing the occurrence and spread of this disease.

Diphtheria is both contagious and infectious, and is distinctly a preventable disease, being easily limited to the first case or cases. When it gets away from the primary cases and makes its escape upon the community some body is to blame. The sooner we accept this as a sanitary maxim the sooner we shall begin to do our duties as individuals and communities.

On account of its frequency and fatality this disease is of far more importance to the people of Kentucky than smallpox, yellow fever or cholera. When a child has sore throat, and especially if diphtheria is in the neighborhood, it should be immediately separated from other children until a competent physician has seen it and decided whether or not it is affected with a contagious disease.

If diphtheria, strictly isolate the case at once, in an upstairs room, if possible, and as disconnected as practicable from the living and sleeping apartments of other children. No one except the physician and nurses should enter the room, and they should take every precaution not to carry the infection to others.

Placard the house, and keep all other children, all having the care of children and all who go where children are, away from it. Notify the health officer of the town or county within twenty-four hours, as the law requires and he will co-operate with the physician and family to keep the disease from spreading.

The discharges from the mouth and nose should be received on soft cloths and burned, and all other discharges should be disinfected, and all refuse from the sick room burned. All utensils used in feeding the sick should be washed separately from other dishes, and should remain some time in boiling water.

Disinfect all bed and body clothing, and other like things, as soon as removed, by immersion for at least six hours in a solution of chloride of lime, four ounces to the gallon of water. They may then be wrung out and put in the wash. Remember, however, that no disinfectant in the occupied sick room can do away with the necessity for abundant fresh air and sunlight.

The isolation of the patient should continue for ten days after all trace of the disease has disappeared and until he has had a disinfecting bath and been clad in garments which have not been in the sick room. No person from a house where there is diphtheria should be permitted to go into public assemblies, and no child from a house where the disease has prevailed should be allowed to attend school without a certificate from the health officer that it is safe to do so.

After complete recovery or death always thoroughly disinfect the room and its contents, preferably with nascent formaldehyde, or where this is not available by burning three pounds of sulphur, moistened with alcohol, for each 1,000 cubic feet of space, previously stopping all openings and dampening the floor, bedding and clothing, and leaving the room tightly closed for twelve hours. The room should then be thoroughly ventilated and all ledges, woodwork, etc., washed with strong soap and rinsed with a disinfecting solution.

In case of death, the body should be wrapped in a sheet saturated to a disinfecting solution and buried without public service. In giving notice of death newspapers should state that it was from diphtheria and that children and those having the care of children, should not attend the funeral.

The board urges the use of antitoxin in every case as soon as the disease is recognized, and recommends that immunizing injections be used for all children who have been seriously exposed.

President Roosevelt has been invited to attend the Charleston Exposition February 12, Abraham Lincoln's birthday.

Roosevelt's Lunch.

Talking with one of his most intimate friends the other day at the White House, President said: "The Booker Washington lunch" was just this way: Washington had called at my request to talk over some matter of interest to each of us. I was busy that day and kept him waiting for some little time. We had no more than started in our talk when luncheon was announced. I at first paid no attention to the call and kept up the talk. Finally it flashed through my mind to invite Washington to lunch with me, which I did, and he accepted. The invitation was not premeditated a moment upon my part. It was given on the spur of the moment, justified by the circumstances of the occasion. I am surprised at the fuss made about it, but I would do the same thing over to day under the same circumstances."

It is said here that Booker Washington not only lunched with the President, but returned the same evening and dined at the White House, and there were plates for ten.—New York Correspondence Courier-Journal.

Mr. Sapp Will Retire.

The result of the election in this district yesterday gave Mr. Charles E. Sapp, Collector of Internal Revenue, a severe headache. He has it today.

Last night after the returns had shown that Mr. Grainger and the Democratic ticket had swept the county and city, Mr. Sapp boarded a street car to go home. To a gentleman on board the car the Collector again reiterated his determination to quit politics. He was sick of the game, and would tender his resignation within forty-eight hours.—Louisville Post.

Gov. Durbio, of Indiana, has refused to honor the requisition for Taylor and Finley in a letter to Gov. Beckham, which stamps him as an assassin at heart and a perjured scoundrel. He assumes to be judge in the case against the fugitives for the assassination of Goebel and calls the entire prosecution a persecution. He says that Governor Mount's reasons obtain, reinforced by subsequent events, that juries are organized for conviction, and that the record of previous trials shows that convictions were made upon a mass of self-evident perjury. He attacks Judge Cantrill and the trial court in the most vindictive manner, accuses him of exploiting his senatorial candidacy and finally tells Gov. Beckham that he will honor no requisition from him until there is provided an impartial judge and a nonpartisan jury. The whole letter is a base libel on Kentucky and on Judge Cantrill especially and the latter ought either to sue the perjured creature who sent it or demand personal satisfaction. There is a limit to forbearance and Durbio has placed himself beyond more decent consideration than a sheep-killing dog.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Fifty-three of the 1,000 Indians on the Winnebago reservation in Nebraska are dead of smallpox, and the disease threatens the destruction of the tribe, owing to the lack of medical attention.

Auditor Coulter and insurance Commissioner Cherault have found that a number of mutual insurance companies have been doing business in the State for several years without paying the license tax assessed by the State. The officials hold that the policy-holders or members are also liable for the failure of the concerns to pay the amounts due and suits may be instituted if the amounts are not paid.

The little scheme of Boss Sapp and Postmaster Baker at Louisville failed to work. It was only a project to defraud thousands of Democrats out of their votes. Notwithstanding this attempt at robbery these same men will cry out Godelism, and we are fighting for a fair count."
